THE DEATH ROLL LENGTHENS.

JACKSONVILLE CANNOT SHAKE OFF YELLOW JACK'S TERRIBLE GRIP.

Five Hundred Victims Now in Hospital-Rightoen Stricken Down in One News-paper Office—Three New Physicians Ar-rive—Business Greatly Orippied and annda Destitute.

PERCIAL TO THE EVERIES WORLD. I aths from yellow fever had been reported at noon to-day, making the aggregate mortalities of the scourge 119 at that hour.

Twelve new cases had been reported, making a total of 842 cases thus far reported. There are over five hundred now on sick-Twenty-eight cases were pronounced oured and given good bills of health yester. day, and many more will probably be discharged to-day.

Drs. Sheftall, of Savannah; Van Hood, of aloosa; Peyton, of Mobile, and Eddy, Nashville, arrived in the city yesterday and have set to with a will for the relief of the physicians who have been doing more than double duty for a month. All the phy-sicians have been detailed in "watches" of than double duty for a month. All the physicians have been detailed in "watches" of six hours each.

The Committee on Nurses has established a headquarters at 50 West Bay street, and many nurses are arriving to-day. They are being assigned to duty as rapidly as possible.

These facts are reassuring to the people of Jacksonville, and there is a less gloomy feeting in the city. There is at least a fair prospect that persons stricken with the fever will get proper care and medical attendance.

The Evening Metropolis, which has not missed an issue, vesterday related its woes. Eighteen cases of fever had broken out among its employees since the epidemic began, and yesterday R. A. Russell, one of the owners of the paper, who had acted in turn as editor, reporter, business manager, compositor, pressman and office boy, as each of these several functionaries was taken down, was stricken himself. This left four printers and an editor as a working force to get the news, set the type, print the paper and run the business department.

The sky is clearer to-day, and one passing through the deserted streets sees many pitiful scenes. On piazzas and in sunny windows are seen the emeciated forms of convalescents propped up with pillows, pale-faced and languid.

Not only every line of business in the city and languid.

Not only every line of business in the city has suffered, but every business house has been crippled. The newspaper offices, in whose work one branch is as absolutely necessary to every other as one vital part is to the human mechanism, have had a particularly hard time of it.

The postal clerks here will receive 20 per cent. extra salary for August, September and October by order of Postmaster-General Dickinson.

Dickinson.

A World reporter was yesterday refused passage on a train to McClenny, but with the newspaper instinct strong within him he quietly secured a place on the cowcatcher of the engine, and there he found about twenty of the thousand inhabitants sick with yellow fever, the rest having fled the town. Among the sick were the only two physicians, the Mayor and a clergyman.

Monday contributions are coming in quite liberally. Over $15,000 was received yesterday, and to-day at noon half as much more had been received, including The World's check for $500, the result of subscriptions sent to the paper.

TELEGRAPHERS AND THE FEVER.

A New York Operator's Terrible Savannal Experience in 1875.

While the newspaper correspondents at the fever-stricken city of Jacksonville are sending graphic and exhaustive accounts of the edition of affairs there, no pen can describe the scenes so accurately and with so much feeling as can a person who has been through the mill."

Northerners cannot even partially realize

"through the mill."
Northerners cannot even partially realize the suffering now going on in the star city of the State of Florida. Men, women and children are there expecting death almost every hour. Those who know the nature of the fell disease dread the thought of being attacked by it, and lose heart if they do become involved in its deadly clutches.

Besides the nurses, physicians and brave newspaper men who risk their lives in the disease-afflicted city for duty's sake, there is another class of heroes to whom credit should be given, for without the telegraphers the outside world would know nothing of the progress of the fever.

Charles D. Kellogg, an accomplished manipulator of the brass key and sounder, now in the main office of the Western Union Telegraph Company in this city, was in Savannah during the yellow-fever epidemic of 1875. To an Evenino World reporter Mr. Kellogg said regarding his experiences:

"I never want to go through a siege of that kind again. It was avful. When the fever broke out there were fourteen of us to run the business, which poured in as it never did before. At first we didn't pay much attention to the fever, but worked as hard as we could for eighteen or nineteen hours, and then went to sleep in rooms provided by the company over the office. A doctor visited us twice a day, but for two weeks found no signs of fever about any of us.

"At the beginning of the third week, however, one of the fellows. Jack McDermott, a robust, hearty man, weighing nearly two hundred pounds, complained of a pain in his back. He worked all night, but when the doctor came in the morning he had a well-developed case of fever. He was removed to the hospital and died in nine hours. Jack was the last one we expected to be taken with fever because of his apparently healthy condition.

"Well, this put a damper on us. Instead of cracking jokes or telling stories as we did was the last one we expected to be taken with fever because of his apparently healthy condition.

"Well, this put a damper on us. Instead of cracking jokes or telling stories as we did before he was taken away, we worked silently, only speaking in connection with business. Every man appreciated his position, and no one knew who would next be called to the great unknown. I tell you it was anything but pleasant. In the morning we took short walks, and it seemed as though the city was deserted. Nothing could be seen on the houses but fluttering yellow flags. You could have fired a cannon up the main street, and no damage beyond the jarring of the pavement would have resulted.

"Two days after poor Mac was buried another of our men was taken down, and he died in two days. After that things were gloomier in the office than before, and the attempts at merriment on the part of some of the boys fell flatter than a hoecake dropped from a fith story window. Some days we didn't see a soul except the doctor and a few colored messengers. When the cases began to multiply the boys would feel rather skittish as they sent the figures over the wires, but no word of comment was spoken.

"Finally, two operators volunteered their services and were sent down to take the piace of our dead comrades. Both were taken with the fever the second day, and one died. To make a long story short, but one man of the original fourteen escaped the fever, and nine of the boys died. I was taken down shout ten days after McDermott was placed under the sod. I had fearful pains in my head and back, and had no hopes of recovery. Careful nursing, however, brought me around in two weeks, and I took the first steamer for New York that was permitted to separe."

Mr. Kellogg has been the lion of the operating room sings he became the lion of the operators.

ELIZABETH BONFIRES.

Indignant Ottinens Build Them Out of Neglected Garbage Barrela.

INPECIAL TO THE EVENIES WORLD. ELIEABETH, N. J., Sept. 15 .- Some of the Elizabeth scavengers have rebelled against the salaries paid them by the city and refused to perform their work. As a consequence barrels filled with garbage have been left standing in the streets for weeks.

On Jefferson avenue, a leading thoroughfare, the stench from the decaying vegetable matter was borrible, and several cases of diphtheria resulted.

Last night the indignant citizens arose in their might, seized all the garbage barrels on the streets and made huge bonfires of them and their contents.

Much excitement provailed, and more trouble will follow unless the City Council takes prompt action.

having been faithfully observed for many centuries.

Yom Kippur began at sunset yesterday and will end at sunset to-day. During these twenty-four hours no morsel of food nor liquid passes the lips of the orthodox Hebrew.

Impressive and solemn services are being held in all the synagogues. The first is the prayer of Kol Nidre thrice chanted by the precentor.

prayer of Kol Nidre thrice chanted by the precentor.

To-day all sins are atoned, all injuries are forgiven. An old custom with the orthodox is the burning of a taper, sitting in a cup of oil. It was lighted at sunset last night, and will burn continuously till the end of the fast this evening.

This taper symbolizes the fire of love, the lamp of the sanctuary. The oil is the oil of

MRS. PROCTOR ARRIVES.

The Bend Professor's Widow Comes from Florida to Arrange for the Funeral.

Mrs. Richard A. Proctor, wife of the eminent scientist who fell a victim to yellow fever in the Willard Parker Hospital on Wednesday, arrived in this city this morning from her home in Florida.

On reaching Jersey City she at once sent word to Dr. Cyrus Edson, of the Health Department, notifying him. She also sent a communication to President Bayles, of the Health Board, which led the latter to issue the following bulletin:

Mrs. Richard A. Proctor, wife of Prof. Proctor, reached this city this morning. She has expressed a strong desire that her address be not made public, and in her affliction does not want to be interviewed.

Mrs. Proctor was met by personal friends of her late husband, and was driven to their residence uptown, where she will remain until after the funeral.

The Professor's body is still in the Morgue at North Brother's Island, and as yet Mrs. Proctor has made no application for its re-

Volunteer Nurses for Jacksonville. ISPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD, PITTERUEG, Pa., Sept. 15.—Dr. Joseph Dickson, R. W. Stewart, J. B. Gentry and B. B. Burns, with ten Sisters of Mercy, have volunteered to go to Jacksonville. TAMMANY'S FULL TICKET.

Current Whispers About Men Who May Find Places on It.

Mayor Hewitt was not at his office to-day He was taking his usual weekly half holiday. The Democratic politicisus, however, are still discussing his crusade against Tammany Hall and the Wigwam braves are willing to bet that the County Democracy will nominate the Mayor. It is $100 to $50 that Tammany Hall will nominate a straight ticket, and will not listen to appeals for harmony from Wash or Albany. Taking it for granted that Tammany Hall will fight alone, every one is wondering how the Tammany Hall ticket will be made up. A number of tickets are proposed. Among those still mentioned for Mayor are Judge P. Henry Dugro, Joseph J. O'Donohue, J. Edward Simmons, Roswell P. Flower and Hugh J. Grant. For Sheriff are mentioned County Clerk Flack. Senator Reilly, ex-Alderman Barker, Alderman Diver and Bernard Martin, while County Clerk Flack is also talked of for County Clerk once more. Among the others whispered of for County Clerk in case Flack is named for Sheriff, are Thomas F. Gilroy, Edward T. Fitzpatrick and ex-Judge John McQuade. The braves wish to nominate a straight-out and Stalwart Tammany Hali ticket from top to bottom. They say they cannot draw votes by nominating outsiders and that they can elect the ticket if it can poll the full Tammany Hall vote in a hot three-cornered fight. those still mentioned for Mayor ar fight. [SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.]

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14.—Last evening a party of four people was carried over the Plat Rock dam in the schuylkill River and two of them drowned. Frank Carfrey, Eugene C. Webb, Minnie Tafley and Hose Essick went out on the river for a row, and Hose Essick went out on the river for a row, and before they realized their position were carried over the dam. The boat upset and Webb swam to shore. He notified the people in the neighbornood and searching parties were organized on both shores to look for the bodies, as it was supposed Webb was the only survivor. After two hours a man who had started out in a boat found Miss Essick clinging to a rock under the dam and almost Essick clinging to a rock under the dam and almost dead from exhaustion. The bodies of Carirey and Miss Tafley have not been recovered.
